

Remembering Utah Philips

Tuesday, 27 May 2008

Utah Phillips, an American folk musician and storyteller who performed extensively for 38 years, died Friday of congestive heart failure in Nevada City, California. He was a tireless advocate for working class struggles and will be dearly missed.

Making the Links Radio will be posting an old program highlighting his work in the coming days.