

The Essence of the Land: The Struggle for Organic Agriculture

Saturday, 13 December 2003

Last Updated Saturday, 03 February 2007

Michael Meacher, recent Minister of the Environment of Great Britain, details the need for a global organic food system at a meeting in Delisle, Saskatchewan, Canada. Nicci Van Noordwyk of Bio Watch talks about the resistance to Monsanto in South Africa.

{enclose essenceofland.mp3}

This program is Part 9 of the Common Voices series. Common Voices is a collaboration between Making the Links Radio, the Saskatchewan Council for International Cooperation (SCIC) and the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA). Common Voices looks at issues impacting communities across the globe drawing links between, for example, the struggle to bring the AIDS pandemic under control in Mozambique and the issues that AIDS workers face in Canada. This is an 10-part series that has been made possible through funding from CIDA.