

Sierra Club: Politics, Energy and the Climate

Friday, 26 January 2007

Last Updated Friday, 02 February 2007

Making the Links Radio's Don Kossick interviews Stephen Hazell, executive director of the Sierra Club, exploring how popular concern has finally sparked political interest in the environment. However, Stephen Hazell warns that we should not assume the Conservatives have really gone green. He asserts that Canada needs to radically alter our relationship to energy to address the looming issue of climate change and greenhouse gas reduction.

{enclose sierraclub.mp3}

For more information go to <http://www.sierraclub.ca/>.